FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Nancy Raymond Selected as Next Medical School Associate Dean of Faculty Affairs

Minneapolis, MN – February 2, 2012 – The Deborah E. Powell Center for Women's Health is pleased to announce that Nancy C. Raymond, MD has been chosen as the next Medical School Associate Dean for Faculty Affairs. Dr. Raymond has served as the Powell Center's Director since its inception in 2003. She currently is also a professor in the Departments of Psychiatry and the Family Medicine & Community Health.

In her new faculty affairs role, Dr. Raymond will be responsible for overseeing and directing the Medical School Office of Faculty Affairs. This includes managing academic appointments and promotions and tenure processes, collaborating with department and UMP leadership to ensure faculty development across the continuum of their careers, directing faculty governance, facilitating conflict resolution, enabling the central management of honors and awards, and more.

Dr. Raymond is excited about taking on this new position and looks forward to working with the Medical School faculty and administration. "This is an ideal opportunity to use my skills to contribute to promoting and supporting outstanding faculty."

Dr. Raymond is slated to start her new position on March 5, 2012. She will continue to serve as the Director of the Powell Center and maintain her role as Principal Investigator on the Building Interdisciplinary Research Careers in Women's Health (BIRCWH) grant from the National Institutes of Health and Co-Director of the Community Engagement Core on the Minnesota Center for Cancer Collaborations.

Please join us in congratulating Dr. Raymond on her new role and wishing her success in her new position.
